About Pfizerpedia

Pfizerpedia is a Pfizer-specific web site, hosted inside Pfizer, that any Pfizer colleague can edit, add to, delete from or otherwise modify. It has its basis in the popular Wiki concept.

Pfizerpedia acts as a central web hub that colleagues can use to link, generate and search content authored by the global Pfizer community. Project teams may use the Pfizerpedia to share non-sensitive information both within the group and with the rest of the organization, but it is not intended to be a system for sharing data or summarized/interpreted results related to specific compounds or projects.

It is important to note that the Pfizerpedia does not replace any document management systems within Pfizer, e.g. Livelink or Documentum. In fact, Pfizerpedia complements these systems by providing a way to easily link into them, while maintaining the security and authorization controls to the primary documents.
