Welcome to the CIPD

Welcome to the CIPD – the professional body for HR and people development. By becoming a CIPD Student member, you'll join a community of 150,000 HR and L&D professionals who are committed to championing better work and working lives.

We've been setting the benchmark for excellence in people and organisation development for more than 100 years. But as the future of work unfolds, it will be your professional knowledge and understanding that will help people find the best opportunities to develop their skills and careers, and ensure that the way work is constructed, managed and experienced benefits individuals, business, and ultimately economies and society as a whole.

By studying for a professional qualification, you're demonstrating your commitment to taking that challenge seriously. And by joining the CIPD, you'll find yourself a career partner to support you every step of the way.

Welcome and good luck in your studies.

Kind regards

Peter Cheese Chartered FCIPD
Chief Executive, CIPD

Achieve your full potential

The CIPD Profession Map

The new Profession Map sets the international benchmark for the people profession. Use it to make better decisions, act with confidence, perform at your peak, drive change in your organisation and progress in your career. No matter who you are in the profession, whether you're a CIPD member or not, the new Profession Map is relevant to you.

Free online learning

We have launched a series of online courses, mapped against the new Profession Map, which bring the core behaviours to life and provide you with the opportunity to start reflecting on where you're at. Use these courses to go beyond your course material and strengthen your practice as a people professional. Access is free for CIPD members.

Raise your professional credibility

Develop a first-class career

When you successfully complete your CIPD qualification, you'll be automatically upgraded to Associate member, which is the first level of CIPD professional membership.

CIPD Associate membership:

- is a mark of professionalism
- gives you status, relevance and a competitive edge in the job market
- entitles you to use the letters Assoc CIPD after your name.

It's something you can be proud of. Together with your CIPD qualification, professional membership will enhance your career prospects and earning potential, inspire confidence in your employer and give you credibility in the workplace.

'The CIPD has completely transformed my career.'

Dipesh Mistry Assoc CIPD
Associate member

Chartered membership

If you're studying the CIPD Advanced Level Diploma, upon successful completion you can apply for Chartered Member or Chartered Fellow status (subject to eligibility), and use the designatory letters Chartered MCIPD or Chartered FCIPD after your name.

Achieving Chartered membership status demonstrates to employers, clients and peers that you have the knowledge and experience to create an impact in the workplace and make a difference to the organisation's strategy and people.

'I would say it's critical to anyone's career in HR or L&D to be a CIPD professional member.'

Nicola Barber Chartered FCIPD
Chartered Fellow

There are three levels of CIPD professional membership

Associate member Assoc CIPD

At this level you are typically using your professional expertise to deliver short to medium-term value for organisations and the people in them.

Chartered Member Chartered MCIPD

At this level you are typically using your professional expertise to deliver medium to long-term value for organisations and the people in them. Your work is likely to be operational in nature, with a strategic overview.

Chartered Fellow Chartered FCIPD

At this level you're typically shifting collective mindsets to create organisations that value people, and using your professional expertise to deliver long-term value for the profession.
